SHORT STORY

Fifty Grand A Year
By FREDERICK MEDLIN

THEY still wonder why Johnson went mad so suddenly after he got out of stir. That is, all but Leo, the fence.
Johnson remembered it all as he faded feverishly through the haze of a dream. It had been a desperate thing to do, and he had had expected to be caught. His mind's eye saw him standing up those precarious ladders of ivy on the high back wall of the Alms House. He recalled how cautiously he had opened the window with a glass-cutting knife, how carefully he had placed the charge of explosive against the cleverly-concealed wall safe, how feverishly he had hurried through the acid smoke to the battered door after the muffled explosion had shaken the room.

Then down that sweep of ivy again to the ground and over the wall and along the hard road to the upper balcony. He steadily grew to the momentary haven of the huge oak. His fingers trembled convulsively as he reached for the handle of the door. He heard the deep-throated baying of the hounds, growing louder and louder as he heard it that night, hour after hour, twisting and dodging and hoping, knowing in his own heart that he would be caught, and fearing it with hysterical terror.

And that captured! The quick shot of the rapid wheel of the bullet. The huge dogs dragging him down. But they had never found the jewels. He had hidden them well, and for that he had been grateful for ten years.

He came quite suddenly upon the clump of trees. They seemed to be the thick darkness to be the same stand of ten years ago. He moved about slowly with his hands outstretched until he found the peculiar rock that curved outward and loomed upward slightly, just as it had long ago. He dug back through the loose earth

Born and reared in Missouri, she resided also in California, Georgia and Texas. She had not walked since she had broken her hip five years ago, but her health was good up until a few weeks preceding her death.

Hog Prices Drop

Hog prices were slightly off at the Elba Livestock sale Monday, with top hogs selling for $19.50 compared with $20.55 the preceding Monday. Feeders were in good demand and brought about a cent more than number ones. Hog prices were off all over the country and the Elba market still maintains its record of being one of the top markets in this section.

Christmas Lights

Elba's public square has taken on a real Christmas appearance. The myriads of vari-colored lights on all four sides of the square have been installed with strings of lights extending from each corner of the square to the opposite corner. They add much to the appearance of the city.

Small Fire

An oil heater caught fire and exploded in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Perkins Saturday afternoon, but some workmen near by extinguished the fire before the fire department arrived on the scene. Only slight damage resulted.

Buildings Get New Fronts

Mrs. J. D. Brooks is building new block fronts to her two buildings west of the old Garrett Motor Co. place. The Chappell garage will continue to occupy the west end, and Mrs. Brooks stated that the other room has not been rented. The new fronts add greatly to the appearance of the building.

D. C. Marley, of Dothan was in Elba Monday and reported that Mrs. Marley suffered a slight stroke about two weeks ago, but that she was recovering nicely and hopes to be home in a few days. Pear Trees Have Second Crop

Baxter Bryan reports that a pear tree in his back yard came out in full bloom this fall and now it has a number of pears on it as large as pullet eggs. The tree is a very old one and has been in the family for many years. It is quite unusual for them to have pears on them the size of Mr. Bryan's at Christmas time.

GRIST MILL RE-OPENS

W. K. Addison, who had to take a rest of several months because of his health, has recovered and has re-opened the Morrow Gin Company's Grist Mill. He has had lifetime experience in the milling business and his well-known "Old fashioned" corn meal is again available. Mr. Addison invites his friends and customers to call on him.

Vandals Cost City Loss Of 250,000 Gallons Of Water

Wastage Not Located For Three Days

Elba's early risers Saturday and Sunday mornings found the water spigots dry, remaining without water until a new supply could be pumped into the reservoir up on the hill. An intensive search for the trouble failed to find any serious leakage until Monday morning, when it was discovered that some miscreant or miscreants had fastened the valves in the conduits in the new school gym in such a way as to cause the water to run full force from Friday night until time of discovery.

Manager Dick Dorman said the water meter showed that 250,000 gallons of water had run through the meter since the last time of reading, whereas the normal consumption should have been about 80,000 gallons. Just why anybody would want to perjure such an act has not yet been determined, nor is there any clue as to the identity of the guilty party.

Elba Post Office Boxes Looted Sunday Night

When Elba postoffice employees arrived Monday morning they found mail scattered over the floor of the lobby. It was discovered that at least six or seven boxes had been opened and contents scattered about. The looters had torn up several checks and thrown them into the waste basket. One was a check for $1,750 belonging to Garrett Motor Company. Using jagged saw puzzle methods, D. L. English was able to assemble the torn parts of the checks so they could be used.

A check for a large amount belonging to J. C. Plommon was found intact, as were a number of smaller checks. A number of letters and other mail were scattered about. It is thought that the looters were looking for money and were not interested in checks. Postmaster W. L. English stated that it was impossible to tell how many boxes were opened or what mail was taken.

The postmaster said he reported the matter to the Postoffice Department and they promised to send an inspector to Elba to make an investigation at an early date.

Ask Permission To Cut Christmas Tree

Everyone should be familiar with the state timber laws, says Jack Conway, forest ranger. At this time of the year many people go out into the country looking for a place to cut a tree. They are often told that they must ask permission to cut a tree. This is a violation of the trespass laws and is illegal and is harmful to the property owner. Ask his permission and let him show you where to cut the trees.

Charles Kendrick Wins Honor

Charles Kendrick was honored last month when he was elected president of a 14-state organization of high school student councils. He will serve next year as president of the Southern Association of Student Government, as a result of his election at the group's annual convention in Mobile November 11-13.

The Association, made up of high schools of fourteen states, does not elect individuals as officers. Delegates vote for schools and the winning school names the officer from their student body. Previously Charles had been recommended for the office and had been given several letters of recommendation.

The defeated candidate was a student of Alamo High School in San Antonio, Texas.

Charles is a student of the Bay County High School at Panama City, Florida. He has many relatives in Elba and has made a host of friends here while on frequent visits.

Workouts Indicate Winning Team Again This Year

The Elba High School basketball team has shown good workouts with the Western Auto Circle Arrows, Elba's star-studded independent unit, and the Tigers have given the Arrows plenty of competition. Coach Jim Reynolds and his assistant, J. B. Clements, are well pleased with the showing of the team so far. The players are taking basketball seriously and are determined to have a winning team. With such a fine court on which to play, the Tigers have a strong incentive to put forth their best efforts. Interest in the game of basketball is at a high pitch in Elba and the huge new gymnasium will seat approximately 1,000 people is expected to be filled to capacity from time to time during the coming season.

The Best News

Lesson for December 19, 1948

WHAT kind of news is good? Christians always have called the heart of their religion "Good News," for that is what "Gospel" means. We do not call it "Good Resolutions" or "Good Ideas," or even "Good Intentions."

"Good Ideas," "Good Intentions," or "Good Resolutions" are good in themselves, but what is good about them? It is a fair question to ask at Christmas time, for the story that Christmas brings is the beginning of the Gospel.

Men of medicine and science have for many years been working on cures for cancer of all types. Success has been found in some instances and failures in others. There are some characteristics that are found in practically all cancers. This is an uncontrolled growth of cells and a disorganization of tissue structure. Cells do not behave in a normal manner and diseased cells appear very often in areas not near the one known to be diseased. These diseased cells destroy healthy ones, and the diseased ones do not disappear of their own accord. Also the starting or cause cannot be shown to be the same for all types of cancer.

It is also pointed out that we cannot accept as truth the idea that a cancer will affect two people in the same manner. In fact one affected organ may not be acted upon the same as some other organ. Therefore, each patient must be studied as a direct individual like a particular problem, and the doctor cannot make his decisions entirely upon what happened to someone else.

The aims of this article is to belittle the danger of cancer. However, for the peace of mind of some people we should be more specific when speaking of cancer. A basic cell type of skin cancer would not cause the panic that some other types might when it is realized that cure is so nearly positive. Let's be specific and try to reduce some of the unnecessary panic caused by the word cancer.

Wall switches in the bathroom should be out of reach of anyone in the tub or using a water faucet to avoid electric shocks.

News of Peace

ONE of the best kinds of news there is to learn that someone we thought was an enemy, is actually a friend. The end of misunderstanding, of estrangement—what a rush of warmth to the heart it brings!

That is the news of the first Christmas—that God is our friend. Christ did not come to assure men that there is a God. That was well known, indeed few doubted it. He did not even come to announce that there is but one God, for that was already known to the wisest sort of men. Neither did he come to tell us the God of justice. The Greeks and Romans, as well as the Jews, knew such a God only too well.

No wonder a Roman poet, looking about on the religions of his time, concluded that fear is the great god-motivator. His notion was a mistake; but it was a natural one. For all the religions of the ancient world, even the religion of the Jew, were attempts to ward off the anger of offended gods.

The coming of Christ was to put an end to all that. This was more than a friendly gesture. It was an act of love. Those who have discovered God in Christ have found that God is not only "Meek and lowly of heart," but Father and Friend. There is no better news!

News of a Gift

IT IS good news also when we hear of a legacy or gift of some sort, especially when it is something we could not have expected. And the story of Christmas is the news about God personally entering the life of man. It is God giving us himself. True, the world is full of the gifts of God.

In the Child of Bethlehem, in the Man he was to become, in the work he was to do, there was a new thing—the self-giving of God. That is one reason why Christmas means infinitely more to a Christian than to any one else.

For the non-Christian, the story of Christmas, for all its charm, is only another story of a child born to poverty, doomed to pain—another chapter in the long agony of man. For the Christian, the story of Christmas is the Good News of how God gives himself, for our sake.

News of Rescue

MANY Americans, caught in the war, starving behind electric fences for years on end, caught their first news of victory from seeing American planes roaring high overhead. No words were needed. It was news, good news, the news of rescue, of freedom.

So it is with man. Caught in the long war between good and evil, a prisoner in the enemy's country, behind the high fences of frustration, plodding heavily through the freezing mire of barren sins, man despairs of strength or freedom.

To all mankind, to each one who will listen, the Christmas story is good news of rescue. A Child is born, but more ... "A Saviour, who is Christ the Lord."

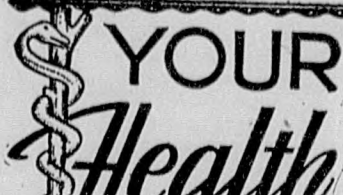

From a Far Country

IT IS good news when from a far country, until now dark and unknown, we learn that it is a land of friends who send us welcome across the miles. So the meaning of Christmas is good news from a far land, the land beyond what we call death. Our Saviour Jesus Christ hath abolished death, and brought life and immortality to light through the Gospel" (II Tim. 1:10).

As on the first Christmas, so ever since, the Gospel of God is not alone the good news of a God who loves and forgives and who brings us the victory, it is the news of God who stands at the end of our dark journey to welcome his children home.

Good news! The world has none to equal the news of Christmas.

THE WORD "CANCER"

The word "cancer" needs to be more clearly defined. Certain types of cancer in certain organs of the body cannot be cured as yet. And because of this the word cancer has come to carry a dreadful meaning. This, however, is not always true. For example, positive cures can be gotten in 95 per cent of the cases of the basal cell type of skin cancer.

Cancer is a general term which takes in a group of varied and many-sided diseases. The dictionary tells us that a cancer is a growth of tissue which tends to spread and it is associated with ill health and a progressive loss of weight.

Men of medicine and science have for many years been working on cures for cancers of all types. Success has been found in some instances and failures in others. There are some characteristics that are found in practically all cancers. This is an uncontrolled growth of cells and a disorganization of tissue structure. Cells do not behave in a normal manner and diseased cells appear very often in areas not near the one known to be diseased. These diseased cells destroy healthy ones, and the diseased ones do not disappear of their own accord. Also the starting or cause cannot be shown to be the same for all types of cancer.

It is also pointed out that we cannot accept as truth the idea that a cancer will affect two people in the same manner. In fact one affected organ may not be acted upon the same as some other organ. Therefore, each patient must be studied as a direct individual like a particular problem, and the doctor cannot make his decisions entirely upon what happened to someone else.

The aims of this article is to belittle the danger of cancer. However, for the peace of mind of some people we should be more specific when speaking of cancer. A basic cell type of skin cancer would not cause the panic that some other types might when it is realized that cure is so nearly positive. Let's be specific and try to reduce some of the unnecessary panic caused by the word cancer.

News of Peace

ONE of the best kinds of news there is to learn that someone we thought was an enemy, is actually a friend. The end of misunderstanding, of estrangement—what a rush of warmth to the heart it brings!

That is the news of the first Christmas—that God is our friend. Christ did not come to assure men that there is a God. That was well known, indeed few doubted it. He did not even come to announce that there is but one God, for that was already known to the wisest sort of men. Neither did he come to tell us the God of justice. The Greeks and Romans, as well as the Jews, knew such a God only too well.

No wonder a Roman poet, looking about on the religions of his time, concluded that fear is the great god-motivator. His notion was a mistake; but it was a natural one. For all the religions of the ancient world, even the religion of the Jew, were attempts to ward off the anger of offended gods.

The coming of Christ was to put an end to all that. This was more than a friendly gesture. It was an act of love. Those who have discovered God in Christ have found that God is not only "Meek and lowly of heart," but Father and Friend. There is no better news!

Employers Urged To Hire Before Xmas

Employers in the Coffee County area who plan to add to their payrolls early next year are urged by William L. Walker, manager of the local Employment office, to make their selections now and notify those to be hired before Christmas.

"It will be a much happier Christmas to a family to know that the bread-winner has a job even though he doesn't actually report for work until after New Year," Mr. Walker pointed out.

Many employers who plan to add to their payrolls often wait until after the holiday season to accept applications. Mr. Walker pointed out. He said that in such cases it would not take much time to interview prospects and give notices to those who had been selected.

There is not a serious problem of unemployment in this area. However, 614 people are registered with the Employment Security office and are seeking jobs.

Those who are available for jobs include many with unusual qualifications, Mr. Walker said. The jobs in which they have had experience include: Farm Bureau Agent, Industrial Engineer, Teacher, Grammar school, Medical Technician; Manager Retail food; Salesperson, furniture; Machinist; Sales Clerk; Bookkeeper; H. Bookkeeping Machine Operator; Typist; Stenographer; Time Keeper; Receiving Clerk; Meat Cutter; Census Taker; Personal Service; Nurse-maid; Waitress; Soda Dispenser; Watchman; Janitor; Porter; Tractor Operator; Circular head saw operator; Welder-Arc; Plumber; Auto Service Station Attendant; Auto Mechanic; Painter; Fireman, low pressure boiler; Fireman, stationary boiler; Saw Miller; Lumber Handler; Trimmer; Tally; Lumber Stacker; Route-man Helper; Slack sewer, hand; Bottle Washer.

Employers can arrange to interview any of the applicants for jobs by calling the Employment Security office, telephone no. 443 and 441.

The State Industrial Relations Department, of which S. F. Wood Cramley is director, is urging employers throughout the state to "Hire Before Christmas."

Angels Have Wings

A LITTLE GIRL was put into an upper berth in a Pullman for the first time. She kept whimpering until her mother told her not to be afraid because the angels would watch over her.

"Mother, are you there?" she cried plaintively.

And a few minutes later: "Daddy, are you there?"

A fellow passenger lost all patience at that point and belatedly: "We're all here! Your mother and daddy and brothers and sisters and aunts and uncles and cousins! All here! Now go to sleep!"

There was a pause, then very softly: "Mother?"

"Well?"

"Was that one of the angels?"

FICKLE MINDS

Johnny hurried to get the evening paper. Tomorrow was picnic day, and he wanted to read the weather forecast.

"Well, dear, what do you predict?" his mother asked.

"They haven't decided yet," the youngster replied gloomily.

"Haven't decided?"

"No. It says 'Unsettled.'"

In a Bad Way

Old Mrs. Migges managed to get along in the world despite her educational deficiencies. One day she was called upon by a lawyer to sign an important document.

"You sign it yourself, sir, and I'll make me mark," said Mrs. Migges. "Since me eyes gave out I'm not able to write a word."

"How do you spell it?" asked the lawyer, his pen poised above the document.

"Spell it whatever way ye please," said Mrs. Migges. "Since I lost me teeth there's not a word I can spell."

"Well, shucks, that's as high as he can reach. You wouldn't expect a little pup like that to bite you on the neck, would you?"

Mitchell Requests Alabama Speed Law

J. D. Mitchell, Director of the Department of Public Safety, said this week that he intends to ask the legislature next term to enact a speed law in Alabama.

At present the only regulation covering automobiles on the highways, is one which says they must travel at a "reasonable rate of speed." However there is a 40-mile per hour speed limit for trucks.

Mitchell said that he thought "fifty-five miles an hour would be a fair speed limit," and he pointed out that our neighboring state of Georgia has a 55 mile limit.

The safety director said he also planned to ask for a law requiring drivers to dim their headlights when approaching another vehicle at night.

"If we can get those laws passed and properly enforced," he said, "they will go a long way in reducing deaths and accidents on our highways."

Alabama Pecans Go To Governors

Several bushels of Alabama pecans were given the spotlight this week, when Gov. James E. Folsom presented choice bags of them to the Governors of Dixie as they gathered in Savannah for the Southern Governors conference.

In presenting the gifts, Gov. Folsom told the Governors that, "Pecan growing is becoming one of the major industries of Alabama." The pecans were grown on the Kilby Prison Reservation.

The "More Trees For Alabama" committee of Coffee County has asked the state nursery for immediate delivery of 200,000 pine seedlings. Half of these seedlings or 100,000 will be placed West of Pea River and the other half on the East side of the river. Farmers who want some of these pine trees should contact Baxter Bryan in Elba or H. D. James in Enterprise. Planting information may be obtained from Jack Conway, foreman, or Soil Conservation workers.

The Wiregrass Soil Conservation District Supervisors have again secured some of these plants. Orders for plants have been placed by L. A. Boyd, III, Bruce Penel, S. T. Jones, and D. H. James for early delivery. A few of these fine plants are still available on a first come first served basis.

Santa Comes Early To Draft Registrants

Santa Claus came early for 557 Alabama Draft Board registrants when all induction and pre-induction calls from December 15 through December 27, 1948 were postponed anywhere from nine days to several weeks. Of the men affected, 253 had received their order to report for induction and 304 their order to report for pre-induction.

The purpose of the postponement, according to State Director W. L. Horn, is to enable the selectees and their families to have an uninterrupted Christmas holiday season.

All of those whose induction call was postponed were originally scheduled to report on December 15 and 16.

EGGS MAY BE WASHED

Now that it looks like the rain has let up, let's get some of our land terraced before spring. Soil conservation service workers will run lines on District Cooperators' farms. They will show the best method of building terraces with whatever equipment the farmer has available.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Veal and children recently visited relatives in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Huntsville is Alabama's fourth largest market in terms of retail sales, wholesale distribution and population. It ranks next to Birmingham, Mobile and Montgomery in size.

In the past, farmers have been advised never to wash eggs. But with new developments of the last few years it is now possible to wash eggs easily without the loss of egg quality. The process is based on the use of detergents commonly called "soapsap soap" and hot water.

It's not too early to begin preparing land that will be planted to a permanent pasture mixture February or March.

To make satisfactory, yet inexpensive candy candleholders push tiny candles into large gum drops then put these on frosting of the cake.

To delight children and make a bath more appealing to them add a few drops of vegetable coloring to the bubble suds.

The great coal fields in the central portion of the state cover approximately 5,000 square miles.

Almost eight million people already secured some of these plants. Orders for plants have been placed by L. A. Boyd, III, Bruce Penel, S. T. Jones, and D. H. James for early delivery. A few of these fine plants are still available on a first come first served basis.

Add a small piece of butter to the aucepan in which macaroni spaghetti or rice is being cooked to keep it from boiling over.

TAKING NO CHANCES

"My dear," said the borrowing neighbor, "when I returned Mr. Jackson's lawn mower with that broken blade he swore at me."

His wife snifled. "We don't want that sort of thing to happen again," she replied. "You'd better borrow the preacher's the next time."

The old lady was punctuating the preacher's sermon with occasional but fervent "Amen's," as the minister blasted every sin from murder to cheating at cards. Then he moved on to the subject of snuff-smoking. Here the woman flared up, nudged her neighbor, and exclaimed indignantly: "Oh! There now! He's done quit preachin' and gone to meddlin'!"

Corn-Kudzu Rotation Increases Corn Yield

During the past several years many Alabama farmers have tried a corn-kudzu rotation on eroded land.

S. R. Doughty, API extension soil conservationist, Auburn, says that they report good results. In all known cases the kudzu was allowed to become well established and make a good growth for four or more years before it was turned and followed by corn.

Records show that in one badly eroded field, kudzu was grown for a few years and then every fourth terrace was planted to corn. The yield from these strips equalled the crop from the entire field before it was planted to kudzu.

Also, kudzu furnishes hay and grazing. Cultivating the corn does not destroy all the kudzu crowns. The crowns will grow and cover the ground until planted to corn again four or more years later.

The only tractor manufacturing plant in Alabama is located at Gadsden as the only steel tube mill in the South, which was recently completed at a cost of some $3,000,000.

Mrs. Dalton Tomley of Dothan spent last Thursday and Friday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Talley on Smith Avenue.

Auto Industry Produces 100 Millionth Vehicle

Detroit—This year the American automotive industry has reached a significant milestone—production of one hundred million motor vehicles.

The 100 millionth vehicle, like millions ahead of it, rolled off the final assembly lines in one of the 112 car and truck plants scattered over 77 cities in 24 states.

Historians generally credit Charles E. and J. Frank Duryea with building, in 1893, at Springfield, Mass., the first U. S. automobile powered by a gasoline engine.

Since the first Duryea car 55 years ago, the industry has turned out motor vehicles at an average annual rate of nearly 2,000,000.

While American manufacturers, under the U. S. system of free enterprise, were producing 100,000,000 motor vehicles, the other countries of the world, some of which began automobile production before the U. S. were turning out 24,000,000. Of the 100,000,000 vehicles produced in the U. S., a total of 21,500,000 units went to export markets.

Today, in 1948, the automotive and related industries employ nearly nine million people, or more than one out of every seven persons earning a living in the United States.

A total of 66 U. S. firms now

HELP ASKED FROM THOSE WHO CARE

Methodists throughout the North Alabama and Alabama Conference are making their annual "White Christmas" appeal to raise funds for these needy children. Methodist churches in Alabama and West Florida are embracing in these conferences. All funds collected go to the home.

The "White Christmas" campaign will culminate in all these churches Sunday, Dec. 19. Kenneth E. Cooper, attorney and chairman, and other Methodist leaders who make up the home's board of directors, said three cottages are under construction to provide adequate living quarters for the dependent kids. More are planned. Demands on the home are much greater than present facilities can accommodate.

These children are sent to school and directed to work and play. As they grow up the lives are shaped toward becoming useful citizens.

Contribution checks should be made to Methodist Children's Home and sent to Max E. Livingston, its superintendent, at Selma.

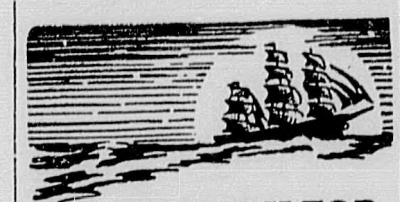

U. S. The rest of the world has a total of about 15½ million vehicles. One for every 130 persons. Altogether about 44 million of the 100 million U. S. built cars and trucks are still in operation. Some five million of these are in foreign countries.

The destiny of America's automotive industry was voiced by Thomas A. Edison in 1895 when he said of the "horseless carriage."

"You must remember that all great inventions of this kind add to the general wealth by introducing a system of greater economy of force. A great invention which facilitates commerce enriches a country just as much as vast hoards of gold."

When preparing oranges for lambrota or salad, skins will come off easier and segments will separate more easily if placed in hot water a few minutes before peeling.

A delicious accompaniment to serve with salads can be made by rolling dry peanut butter in balls and dipping them in powdered sugar.

YOUNG Archy Spencer was a rabid "joinder." He belonged to every lodge in town, and was proud of it. That is he was until he asked the canny Lucy Morgan to be his wife.

"I don't know," the girl replied doubtfully. "I hear you are an intemperate lodge member, Archy. Just how many lodges do you belong to?"

"Fifteen," the startled swain admitted.

"No," Lucy decided. "I can't marry you. I simply won't have a husband who goes out 15 nights a week!"

with an imported linen cloth embroidered in red and green, further carrying out the Christ-room. Miss Helene Ham presided over the brides book. Refresh-room by Mrs. Johnny Carter.

Piano selections were rendered by Mrs. Dewey Hattaway during

Impossible Journey

By SHIRLEY RAY

IT WAS the fifth morning in a row so Mrs. Laughton was not surprised. She slipped out of bed quietly, reached for a robe, and put it over her shoulders.

Before dawn, every morning of that week, her forty-year-old daughter had wakened her with gentle but insistent taps to tell her about the dream she'd had.

Just had. Had they been nightmares, Mrs. Laughton would have been eager to get up to comfort a frightened child, but they were never nightmares. They were always gay and fanciful dreams that made the little girl's small face glow with wonder and delight.

So Mrs. Laughton, as on the other mornings, took Ellen into the kitchen and poured a glass of milk for each of them.

With both small hands wrapped around her glass, the little girl sat on the edge of a too large chair and with shining eyes, eagerly told her dream.

"I DREAMED I was sleeping, Mommy, and that the North Wind stopped right outside my window and called my name. He said, 'Ellen—Ellen—wake up and come to the window. Then I'll put you on my shoulder and take you for a ride with me.'"

Mrs. Laughton took a drink from her glass of milk. This dream was going to be very much like the others—something or someone—once a bluebird, once a fairy—she couldn't recall what the others were—came to the window and offered to take Ellen on an impossible journey.

Mrs. Laughton yawned. She would like to have put her daughter to bed and ended the tale at once, but the thought of Mr. Laughton and his sure-to-behead disposition made her ask patiently, "What did the North Wind look like, dear?"

Ellen was enthusiastic. "He was green," she declared importantly.

Mrs. Laughton thought to herself, "She doesn't know one color from another."

The child continued, "He had long pointy green shoes and long green hair and a long green nose."

The wide eyes and little blonde hair leaned forward and the small voice became confidential. "He was all green except for the buckles on his shoes. They were silver and shaped like stars and they sparkled so bright that I had to blink."

"We went way up high over the houses and trees," Mrs. Laughton yawned again. Ellen's eyes as we went through the air."

other day schedule is maintained on the air route, and planes make round trips from Mobile in five days.

Huge C-47 Globemasters are used in the air-ferry. Each plane can accommodate 37,000 pounds of freight, most of which is taken up with spare parts for the air armada supplying the American sector of Berlin. On the trip back home, they bring equipment for repair in this country.

The air route is by Bermuda and the Azores and on to Germany by way of France.

SHORT STORY

When the Blind See

By LOUIS CUNNINGHAM

"I MUST go to him myself, Parish. I have so looked forward to surprising him." Mrs. Gerald Irving, home from six months in Europe, had reached New York a day earlier than she had called her husband. Her maid held the door open for her as she walked into the parlor. "Just as if," Parish smiled fondly at her mistress — a face sweetly calmed by years of darkness and patient suffering.

"Blindness made you no less lovely, madam," and Parish, "And you could see nothing finer than yourself." Parish watched her feeling the wall to her husband's study. Gerald Irving moved hastily away from the woman who sat beside him. He put his finger to his lips, then touched his eyes to call to mind that she who stood in the door could not see them.

"Kitty! You wired you'd be on Wednesday's plane. And there was no one there to meet you." "I wanted to walk in on you like this when we were all alone and thinking of me," she cried.

"The woman moved noiselessly and stood by the mantle. Kitty took the place she had left. Gerald, an uneasy frown on his face, sat beside her.

"It is late," said the blind girl. "I knew I would find you alone. Have you been very lonely for me, Gerald? What did you do while I was away?"

"It has not been easy without you," he said.

"You never cared for anyone but me, Gerald, did you?" persisted Kitty. "I was no other woman."

"But there was, Kitty... a year before you came. I thought I loved her and she pretended to care for me. I was just a young lawyer then. I had nothing to offer and she married a wealthy man."

"You ceased to love her then, of course. Did you never see her again?"

"Yes, I saw her... recently." "Tell me. What is she like?"

"She is prettier than I. Tall, perhaps, with black hair and eyes and very red lips and a soulless face... a sort of woman whom it is death for a man to love."

The woman moved angrily. A different crimson from that which decided her cheeks flooded her forehead. Gerald gazed in wonder. He smiled cynically. "She is all you describe. Even as you guess... for I know you never saw her... she is soulless. She was untrue to my love and she is now untrue to me."

Her lips went to his.

"The man who calls her wife. She is a temptress... even to one who is strong in an honest love. She came to me again and tried to win me back. But what she offers is dishonorable. I told her to go. You see my protection. I never want to see her again."

"Kitty, what is this? Am I dreaming? You... you can't!" "I went to a specialist in Vienna two months ago and have some of my sight back. That was why I came in surprise. And oh, I am glad that the first thing I saw about you is the honesty of your love. I had been without the use of my eyes too long to trust the value of what they first showed me... that woman with her arm about your neck. I knew if I were blind I would be happier, so I kept up the pretense and in blindness I saw what in light I might have missed."
